ARCHITECTURAL SIGNIFICANCE (Describe important architectural features and evaluate in terms of other buildings within the community.)

A large 1921 brick Tudor Revival with a variety of rooflines and gables. The protruding entrance gable has an exterior chimney. The windows are large and expansive in an otherwise restrained facade.

This house represents the Tudor Revival - a very popular building mode that was used in half of the houses in the area.

HISTORICAL SIGNIFICANCE (Explain the role owners played in local or state history and how the building relates to the development of the community.)

This building represents part of one of nine developments that all were holdings of the Belmont Hill Company and reflects typical development on the "Hill" between 1920-1940.
